

“WIMMEN, LUVLY WIMMEN

It is officially rumored that Lieutenants Holland and Steininger, promising young officers of the 604th Engineers, very nearly lost their transportation to the U. S. A. because of the “two” we left behind. Their punishment for having erred consisted of carrying the records of one of the companies from Pontanezen to the docks, which punishment seemed easy to the “Loots,” until they lifted the box. All would have gone well had not the discovery been made that to the records had been added several heavy dictionaries, bulky technical books of the officers and the love letters of the “TOP.”

Report has come to the editors of the Range Finder that men of the Casual Companies feel that they are being slighted in the paper. The editors have made every effort to get news from the Casual Companies but the answer invariably is “I don’t know anything about these fellows.” If you have something of interest let’s have it, we’ll be only too glad to put it in print. Leave articles with Chaplain Ackiss, Corporal Fleming, Compt. 3, Pvt. Kiesling, Compt. 5, or Sgt. Patzke, Ship’s Library.

Chaplain Kemp, hand over mouth, making dash for rail. One soldier to another, “Two bits the Chaplain comes.” He won.

Yesterday being Friday, conditions were reversed. Instead of the men feeding the fishes, the fishes were fed to the men.

EXTRA! EXTRA!

A 'Black Hand' meeting was discovered on board by the ship's Sherlock but investigation proved it to be only a troop of minstrels rehearsing for a two night show being arranged by the Ship's Amusement Asso. The shows will be held next week. Announcement of date later.

According to the Navigator we should pass the Azores this afternoon. If the weather is clear, be on deck to get an eyeful. The course may be changed however so if they don't show up don't be disapointed.

According to a recent announcement made by the Navy Department plans are being outlined which will result in placing out of commission and eventually breaking up, twelve battleships of the dreadnaught type. These ships are valueless against the present types of battle craft. Four of the battle ships were of the historic squadron comprising the Oregon, Indiana, Iowa and Massachusetts, already gone to the scrap pile. The remaining eight to be included are the Kearsarge, Kentucky, Illinois, Alabama, Wisconsin, Maine, Missouri and Ohio.

Sgt. Nelson says he can't understand why it is that they serve Navy beans to the Army.

A bunk and three squares per with spending money on the side is better than a bench in the square. See the Navy.
