

SMOKER PROVES BIG SUCCESS

Clever and scientific boxing, rough and tumble fighting, good comedy numbers and solo singing of a high order made last night's program one of perfect balance. There was something there for every taste and the big crowd went away thoroughly satisfied.

The most widely advertised bout, Suman vs. McCraeken, went to Suman of the Army, after three fast and well-fought rounds which reflected much credit on both men. We suggest the shifty Suman as a logical opponent for Battling Cottrell of the Navy who out-classed Kawyzinski, Army, in one round.

Dancing master tactics on the part of Parvise spoiled his fight with Aekey of the Army. The draw decision was unpopular. Aekey showed himself a master of the fine points of ring generalship.

Young O'Neil and Kanach went an extra round in an endeavor to get a decision from their three round draw. The fighting was so even that the draw stood. These men gave a very worth-while exhibition of boxing as it is at it best.

Chunky Joachim won from Splinters Cochran in three clinchy, slug-fogging rounds.

Fighting Kellis put up a gritty but losing fight against Frank Stefaueich in a bout which was full of action. The boys deserve a world of credit for their work as it is the first public appearance of either.

Smith, Fraikes, Toms, and Weyman of the Army kept the crowd convulsed with their comedy. Lt. McMurtrie made a hit with his singing—BCK.

SPAGHETTI BEATS STRIKERS

K. P.'s in Compt. 1 went on strike yesterday forenoon. The walkout was short-lived. Joe Braida, president of the K. P.'s Union says strike was caused by too much complaining by men at the tables. The turning in of denims to Sgt. Thomas was signal for revolt. Pete Weeder and Joe Paine, walking delegates assisted. The confab with "Capital," as represented by Thomas, was in full blast when suddenly Braida snuffed the air, redorned his denims and said, "Boy's there ain't gonna be no strike, they got Spaghetti for dinner."

These days remind those of us who hope for a discharge "Toot Sweet," that we have something to look forward to. Days down at the beach in a nifty one piece suit—and plenty of ocean. Palm beach clothes and a Panama. A shaded veranda with a pitcherfull of something cold. Another shaded veranda, night-time—HERE! Again we say, O H I B O Y ! ! ! —BCK.

THEM DREAMS

Last night as I lay in the old hammock I dreamed I was home and laying in a nice tub of cool water with cigarettes on a chair nearby and my eyes on a new copy of the Saturday Evening Post. And then I woke up as somebody played billiards across my sweaty "chist" from the top bunk to the deck.

Tomorrow and Thursday nights that galaxy of Peerless Performers, those Shining Lights of Naval Vaudiville, the New Hampshire Minstrels will present the show they have been working up for the past several weeks with this trip in mind. Jazz, dancing, high class singing, comedy—these birds have a line of stuff worked up that would bring a smile to the face of the Sphinx. Come early and avoid the push.

LOST—On Berth Deck, a Porty Frame gold piece. Finder please return to Lt. Strubson, 604th Eng.

The water "fountain" on the Gun Deck "ford" has a foot rail which seems to call back memories to men who have been away from the United States from six months to two years. At any rate some of the foot gymnastics performed while quaffing the Aqua are strikingly like those of past days, which will have their fins July 1st next.
